

Drifting so Far

V1

You're drifting so far , you can't find the shore you're surrounded by water and you feel so all alone. The storm begins to rage and the waves begin to roar. You were sure that you were capsized before you ever reach the shore

Chorus

Just look up, there's the rescue his arms are open and wide. He is holding out the life boat calling you to come inside it is filled with love and mercy and his amazing grace. You were sure he can't forgive you but yet you see it in his face come on into the boat and come home.

V2

You never knew that you were drifting
You never meant to leave the shore
You pulled up the anchor of commitment.
You didn't plan to go that far
Just so busy with life's worries never taking time to pray.
You never felt the tide of sin come in till it was cold and it was late .
